

Bob "xxxDarkKirito18xxx" Alexander

Bob "xxxDarkKirito18xxx" Alexander is a 19 years old university student living with his parents. He's the only child in the family and faces the pressure of the high expectations from his parents. His parents have always told him to stop wasting his time on games, but he cannot stop enjoying the Monster Hunter franchise. He has gotten so good at the game that his Monster Hunter friends always ask him for tips to get better at a certain aspect of the game. He has come to an agreement with his parents that as long as he finishes his responsibilities, then he can do what he enjoys.

In the morning and afternoon, Bob spends his time either in class or working through his studies. He would try to complete his daily agenda before dinner time. At night, he eats dinner with his family, and then spends his time playing his favorite games. Outside of the Monster Hunter franchise, he looks for other friends to play League of Legends with. He considers himself a casual League of Legends player and does not wish to play competitively.

Bob does not have many friends, so he wants to find other people that he can enjoy the game with. He wishes to be able to use the gaming time with his friends as a stress reliever and take his mind off of his studies and other responsibilities.

Tom "Hanji" Cheng

Tom Cheng is a 23 year old gamer living with his parents, but most people recognize him by his gamer tag "Hanji". He is living with his dad and little sister. His mom had passed away 10 years ago due to an unfortunate accident and his family is being supported by his dad and himself. His little sister is currently in 10th grade. He has been very enthusiastic and competitive about gaming, especially CS:GO. He has been a long time player of the game and is part of the group of high ranking players. At the age of 20, he was scouted by a professional team and decided to drop out of university to pursue his career in eSports, specifically in the game of CS:GO, as he was very enthusiastic about gaming and it had a higher income than his current job.

As a professional player in CS:GO, Tom's daily routine involves eating breakfast after getting up at 9AM and completing his daily workout. After his workout, he practices with other professional players and teams for 2 hours before lunch. After eating lunch at 1PM, He and his team has a strategy meeting about upcoming games and review their performance in previous matches. They also have more practices planned in the afternoon. He would be free at around 8PM to do whatever he wants. He prefers to spend this time playing some CS:GO to further increase his skills at the game.

One of Tom's complaints is that the matchmaking in the game is terrible and he would like to find other players of similar skills so he would be able to learn and improve more. He would also like to be able to enjoy the game with these players.

Eve "Sheen" Jacobs

Eve Jacobs is a 16 year old highschool student. She has an older brother and an older sister. She was introduced to the game Path of Exile by her brother, since she was looking for something to do outside of school. She never had trouble with school and has been a straight A student for the longest time.

She has school on weekdays from the morning until afternoon. After she gets home, she spends approximately 2-3 hours studying for school. Beyond that time, she is free to do whatever she wants. Recently, she has been getting more and more into Path of Exile and is looking for a guild to join and people to play with. Previously, she has been playing and learning the game from her brother only. Although she is interested in getting more involved in Path of Exile, she still wishes to have regular outings with her friends. They would sometimes visit some highly rated restaurants or go shopping during weekends. She is also inviting them to play Path of Exile with her.

Although she is investing time into Path of Exile and looking for more people to play the game with, she is also open to trying out new games that are favorites of people that have the same interests as her.
